CHANGE OF RURAL MAIL ROUTE.—Postmaster J. S. Sweeney, of Paris post-office, Monday received an official order to change Rural Free Delivery Route No. 4, as follows: Instead of going out Paris and Riddles Mills pike on out-bound trip, and will continue directly North on the Maysville pike to the Riddles Mills pike, about one-quarter of a mile South of Millersburg, returning by the old route, only traveling in a reversed direction. The new route will include two miles on the Redmon pike not before included in the service. The route will then be 23½ miles. The order is effective July 1st. This will allow many patrons to receive mail earlier than before. Those wishing mail boxes can leave order with the mail carrier, O. W. Miller, and they will be promptly supplied. There will also be some slight changes in R. F. D. No. 5.

JACOB W. PATTERSON

Called To The Head of One of The Greatest Horse Marts In The World.

Jacob W. Patterson, one of the leading horsemen of the Blue Grass Region, and a member of the firm of Harbison, Jewell & Patterson, owners of the Lexington Tattersalls establishment, has been elected general manager of the John A. Miller Feed and Sale Stables at Atlanta, the greatest horse and mule mart in the South and one of the largest in the world.

The selection of Mr. Patterson grew out of the recent death of Captain John A. Miller, founder of the enterprise, who was its President and General Manager. The stockholders held a meeting in Atlanta on Tuesday and reorganized by electing George M. Brown president and treasurer; J. Hall Miller, son of the late Captain Miller, secretary, and Mr. Patterson, general manager. The Constitution of Wednesday publishes a fine portrait of Mr. Patterson and in connection with its report of the reorganization says:

"Mr. Patterson is widely known as an expert in the horse and mule market and his addition to the list of officers of the Miller Company is an important one. He will move to Atlanta with his family and take active charge of the office which he is to fill. The Miller Company is one of the most extensive dealers in the country and their stables in Atlanta are among the largest in the world. The concern was established by the late Captain John A. Miller, and was under his direct management up to the time of his death. The firm will retain his name."

Mr. Patterson will enter upon his duties at once, although he will not remove his family to Atlanta until next fall. He will continue his interest in Tattersalls at Lexington, but will devote practically all of his time to the big Atlanta enterprise. Mr. Patterson has made his headquarters at the Miller stables for years, and the business and personal intimacies thus formed led to his selection as the successor of the late Captain Miller.

The Miller stables have a capacity for 3,000 animals at one time and the company handled 47,000 horses and mules last year. Mr. Patterson's selection for the management of such a gigantic enterprise is a splendid testimonial to his standing in the horse world and as a wide-awake business man. Rev. Dr. E. O. Guernsey has favored the Lexington Leader with a few lines of tribute to Mr. Patterson, as follows:

JAKE PATTERSON.

"It is gratifying to his many friends (who are numbered by his acquaintances) that Mr. Patterson has been chosen to manage that great Southern mart of horsemen at Atlanta, the John A. Miller Stables. It is the largest establishment of its kind in the South, and its administration requires a rare combination of common sense, executive ability and stainless character. It is not too much to say that Jake Patterson stands for all of these."

"The writer has known him from a boy, and new his parents before him. There is a virtue in pedigree of men as well as horses. Jake Patterson has the pedigree of a true, good man, and a horseman as well. There isn't a better woman in Kentucky than his mother, and his father was an honest, true man, an old Kentucky farmer and horseman in the best sense."

"Those who know Jake Patterson do not wonder at his remarkable success. With Asa H. Jewell and Shelby T. Harbison, his worthy partners, he has built up the great Tattersalls establishment at Lexington, the leading mart for high class horses in the State."

"The Atlanta concern have shown their wisdom in selecting him to manage that large establishment. We congratulate them and the city and the South on their choice."

"His removal will be a serious loss to the best interests of Lexington, but an equal gain to those of Atlanta. We all regret his departure, with his charming family, and bespeak for them the royal welcome they deserve from the good people of Atlanta."

QUICK SERVICE.—The Home Telephone Company for quick service knocks the persimmon. "Hello! Number, please!" and you are connected with the one desired.

STREET FAIR.—The first street Fair for Georgetown, which is being held under the auspices of the A. O. U. W., is in full blast and will continue through the week. The business houses generally and some of the residences are handsomely decorated in honor of the occasion.

A FATAL MISTAKE.—A Boyle county girl gave her father a teaspoonful of carbolic acid, thinking it was some medicine he had been taking. The drug caused death.

GEN. GORDON'S SON.—At Atlanta, Ga., Gen. John B. Gordon, commander of the United States Confederate Veterans, has sent out a notice requesting the police to locate his son, Capt. Frank Gordon, and return him to his home. Capt. Gordon left home last week with his nerves greatly overwrought, and since then nothing has been heard of him. Gen. Gordon thinks his son is wandering about the country.

NEW DIRECTORY.—The new directory for the Home Telephone Co. is in the hands of the printer. If you want the latest improved telephone service obtainable, see Manager Newton Mitchell and have a Home Telephone put in at once so you can get your name in the new directory.

LATEST POSTAL SCANDAL.—James T. Metcalf, for many years superintendent of the money order system in the Post-office Department at Washington, was summarily dismissed by Postmaster General Payne for awarding contracts for Government printing to a firm employing his son and whose bid exceeded that of a responsible competitor by $45,000.
